Live Fire Pizza open in Oxbow Public Market

Live Fire Pizza open in Oxbow Market

Restaurant industry veterans Michael Levine, Scott Rodrick and Ervan Lim have opened Live Fire Pizza at Oxbow Public Market.

Live Fire Pizza offers inventive California-style wood-fired pizza along with a selection of Italian sandwiches, local salads and baked goods that celebrate the flavors of the Napa Valley.

Rodrick and partners enlisted Liza Shaw, former executive chef of San Francisco's A16 and consultant to Redd Wood in Yountville in Live Fire's menu development and chef team training.

Live Fire Pizza offers dine-in and to-go service, incorporating the energy of the market with a creative indoor and outdoor seating area enjoying scenic vistas facing the Alta Heights hills that frame the eastern border of the City of Napa. BCV Architects from San Francisco designed the picturesque restaurant and wine bar.

Live Fire Pizza is open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, offering coffee and house-baked pastries on weekdays, full breakfast on weekends, and lunch and dinner daily.

For more information about the menu, see www.livefireoxbow.com.

Vintage Inn reopens as Vintage House

Vintage House, formerly Vintage Inn, is the first property to undergo its major transformation and rebranding as The Estate Yountville and will officially launch in August.

The hotel is currently welcoming guests to enjoy its redesigned guestrooms while it puts the final touches on a new pool area and lobby.

The 22-acre property is nearing completion of the first phase of the reimagining of what was formerly known as The Vintage Estate, which includes Vintage House, Villagio Inn & Spa and V Marketplace.

Thayer Lodging/ Brookfield Properties has teamed up with SB Architects and interior design firm Hirsch Bedner Associates to fuse agrarian roots and expressive sophistication.

Steve Davino is general manager.

Guestrooms incorporate natural elements and materials reflective of the beauty of the surrounding region. The design features include luxe bedding, wood-burning fireplaces, private balconies or patios, living room-style furniture, large bathrooms with double showers and natural ESPA bath amenities.

All visits include a daily continental breakfast, turndown service, Wi-Fi, parking and more.

Guests at Vintage House are invited to unwind in a stylish private cabana at the newly redesigned pool and can also take advantage of the newly redesigned spa at Spa Villagio.

Vintage House event space can accommodate two to 40 attendees.

For information, visit www.vintagehouse.com, www.villagio.com and www.vmarketplace.com.

More on proposed new hotels

A few weeks ago, we mentioned three new hotel projects proposed for Napa.

The applicants weren't helpful in providing details, but fortunately, the city of Napa's staff is exceptionally helpful, as is the county's.

The proposals contain a great deal of information, though some is preliminary. Here's a summary of some of the most important parts.

Wine Train hotel

Probably the project that will be most visible to most Napers is the proposed resort that would replace the Wine Train depot and its surface parking lot with a large structure designed to suggest the great train stations of Europe.

The proposed project includes a new Wine Train station, a luxury hotel with approximately 148 guest rooms, a rooftop restaurant, a retail market and enclosed parking to accommodate the train station, hotel and restaurant. Hotel rooms on the third and fourth floors surround an internal covered atrium.

The atrium does look impressive. Too bad you won't be able to hop a train to go somewhere, though a dinner excursion is fun.

Napa Commons/Trinitas hotels

The owner of the Meritage Hotel in Napa Commons south of town are proposing to build two less-upscale hotels with other brands.

They – and a winery for the Trinitas brand owned by the same family – would be built on a 11.5-acre project site north of the Meritage and facing State Highway 221 (Soscol).

The property owner, Pacific Hospitality Group, previously built the 100-room Meritage Resort and Spa in 2000 and a 100-unit time share facility, then expanded the Meritage to 325 rooms. In 2015, the Planning Commission approved plans for a project known as “Meritage Commons,” consisting of 145 hotel rooms, exhibition hall and related facilities, north of the Meritage Resort and Spa. It is under construction.

The applicant is proposing to build a four-story “dual branded” hotel consisting of a 100-room Marriott Residence Inn and a 153-room Marriott AC Hotel (253 total rooms) plus a single-story 26,214 sq.-ft. winery building, a two-story 29,878 sq.-ft. office building and a 441-space parking lot.

If all are built, the Pacific Hospitality Group will own 723 hotel rooms within the Napa Valley Commons Corporate Park.

The proposed hotels will share facilities with the other hotels at nearby Meritage Resort and Meritage Commons, including back-of-house services, laundry and a shuttle to downtown.

The new hotels wouldn't have any full-service restaurants to avoid competing with restaurants in downtown Napa, though the Meritage does include Siena and a sports bar.

Cambria hotel

The proposed Cambria hotel at 320 Soscol Ave. by the Hawthorne Inn at Tulocay Creek would be a revised version of a hotel approved by the Planning Commission in October 2010.

Then owned by George Altamura, who is selling or has sold the property, it would be a 41,711 sq.-ft., four-story, 90-room hotel on the 2.5-acre property.

The new owner/developer proposes modifications to include 10,396 square feet (52,107 sq. ft. total floor area), but with the same number of rooms and stories.

The hotel entrance would be on the north of the building, not facing the street.

The design now includes a two-story lobby entrance, a prominent front entry door, a fitness center, check-in/concierge area, administrative offices, a laundry facility, staff breakroom, lobby restrooms, a kitchen and breakfast cafeteria, conference room, bike storage and a lobby bar facing an outdoor terrace and pool area with spa. These amenities were not included in the original hotel design.

Recent hotel openings

Of course, the 115-room Hampton Inn opened in Napa's South Century Center and the 183-room Archer will open soon downtown.

As noted above, the Meritage Resort is building a 145-room expansion across the street that will include a conference center.

Las Alcobas has opened in St. Helena with 68 rooms. Locals report that it has created parking and traffic problems.

Other proposed hotels

South of Napa:

- Montalcino/Napa River Resort 379-room hotel, spa and conference center near the water treatment plant
- Vie Vage 135 rooms

In downtown Napa:

- Old Post Office with 50 rooms?
- Old city hall property, 250 rooms
- Napa River Inn plans a 26-room expansion.
- Napa businessman J.B. Leamer plans a 74-room inn at Soscol and First streets.
- Andrew Siegal wants to build a 27-room hotel next to the Wine Train tracks on First Street.
- The South Oxbow lot will surely include a hotel once it's sold and developed
- Silverado and First (350 rooms; once to be a Ritz Carlton)
- Peter Dwares wants to build a 108-room hotel at Soscol and Sixth where the former car barn and repair shop of the Vallejo, Benicia & Napa Valley Railroad still stands.

- Milliken Creek Inn wants to add 9 rooms.
- The Embassy Suites plans a 54-room expansion.
- Napa Pipe plans a 150-room hotel.
- River Terrace Inn is adding 8 rooms.

In addition, the Laird family plans the 50-room Oak Knoll Resort hotel at the Red Hen site north of Napa (There's already an Oak Knoll Inn, so we expect some name changes).

Hotels planned upvalley

Some big projects are also planned upvalley.

Thomas Keller intends to reopen the Bordeaux House under his brand next to the French Laundry in Yountville, but with no change in number of rooms.

Ted Hall hopes to develop an 80-room hotel in south St. Helena.

St. Helena has proposed a hotel at the present city hall site (75-85 rooms proposed) and/or by the library (183 rooms proposed).

The 60-room Vineland Station hotel in south St. Helena has been seeking financing for quite some time.

The 85-room resort tentatively called Silver Rose to be run by Four Seasons resorts and 110-room Calistoga Hills resort are being built in Calistoga.

Lodgings were once proposed at Lake Berryessa but who knows if and when that will happen.

I won't bother to add up the added rooms since some of these projects are pretty tentative, but it's clearly a lot of rooms. Cities love the added tax revenues from hotel rooms above all else.

An obvious question is "Who would stay in them," but perhaps more critical is, "Where will their poorly paid workers live?"

The city doesn't require the developers to build affordable housing; rather, it takes in-lieu fees and has contributed to some new affordable housing. About 100 units are now being built.

Estimates are that hotels need two employees per guest room and housing averages just over two people per unit. That would mean that the proposed new hotels by the Meritage, for one example, would need about 250 housing units for its employees.

Note that the nearby Napa Pipe Project, when it's finally built, will include 700 to 900 homes, and only 140 would be affordable.

What Yountville has done

Yountville has done a great job of tying hotel construction to increasing its affordable housing when approving new and/or expanded hotel properties. Here are some comments from town manager Steven Rogers:

The Bardessono Inn (62 rooms) was conditioned to provide property and financial support for the Arroyo Grande Villas immediately adjacent on Finnell Road. The town also provided financial support to this property which is owned and operated by Napa Valley Community Housing. This is a 25-unit deed-restricted affordable mixed-size apartment rental community.

As a part of the expansion of Hotel Yountville, the town conditioned approval of the hotel expansion from 51 to 82 rooms with providing deed-restricted affordable housing.

The hotel opted to build and operate the housing on their own. The Hopper Creek Apartments are 25 units, with most of the units one bedroom with some two- and three-bedroom units. The recent sale of the Hotel Yountville included these apartments and the condition to operate the apartments.

Rogers said that both of these affordable housing developments have been integrated well into the community.

“Our local council felt very strongly that it was important to tie provision of affordable housing to approval of additional hotel rooms to help to provide increased local (in Yountville) housing for those who work in the hospitality industry so that they could have the option of being a part of the Yountville community.”

A proposal to build housing at the veterans home is intriguing since it would also likely contribute students to Yountville Elementary School, which is in danger of shrinking to closure.

Calistoga's approach to hotel housing

Calistoga required Solage to build affordable housing as a part of the approval process for the hotel.

Solage partnered with Calistoga Affordable Housing. Solage provided CAH with a 1.13-acre property with water and sewer in place. CAH then partnered with Burbank Housing to build the project.

The construction was financed by 4 percent bonds, HOME funds from HUD and a Federal Home Loan Bank loan.

The project, which is called Palisades Apartments, was completed in 2007 and consists of 24 units for households with incomes from 25 to 60 percent of annual mean income. Occupancy of the units is not limited to Solage employees.

The affordable housing requirement for this project was not based on impact fees but was a trade-off as part of Solage's negotiation for variances on the project.

The town hasn't been so tough on two new luxury projects.

Silver Rose (Bald Mountain Development) and Calistoga Hills will each pay $1.40 per sq. ft. of commercial area and $18,000 per residential unit, about $500,000 for Silver Rose and $550,000 for Calistoga Hills.

That $1 million won't build many housing units, however. Making proposed hotels and resorts build housing would be far more effective than contributing into a fund; if they're in walking distance, even better, as that reduces traffic impact.

Isn't it time for Napa to step up to this challenge and require hotel developers to build apartments, not just pay a fee? Building possibly thousands of hotel rooms with no concrete provision for housing help seems irresponsible. What Napa said, “No housing, no rooms”?

News for the Napa wine community

Raymond buys Bartolucci-Stice Vineyard

Raymond Vineyards, and Boisset Collection, have bought the 55-acre Bartolucci Vineyard off of Stice Lane in St. Helena. The vineyard is adjacent to Raymond's existing Stice Vineyard, and has 47 acres planted to Cabernet Sauvignon, Sauvignon Blanc, Petit Verdot, Cabernet Franc and Merlot.

Following the philosophy of all of Boisset's estate vineyards, the Bartolucci vineyard will be converted to certified Napa Green, certified organic and certified Biodynamic® farming. The addition of another estate vineyard in St. Helena, in the heart of the upper Napa Valley near the Raymond winery, shows Boisset's ongoing, long-term commitment to the region.

The addition of the Bartolucci-Stice Vineyard follows the 2015 purchase of the Ticen Ranch on Highway 29, with 25 acres of Rutherford vineyards. Raymond Vineyards now comprises 380 acres in Napa Valley.

The Bartolucci-Stice vineyard was originally planted in 1976, just two years after the first harvest of Raymond Vineyards in 1974.

With this year's release of its 2014 Napa Valley Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon, Raymond is celebrating 40 years of winemaking in Napa Valley since its first vintage in 1974.

Constellation buys Schrader portfolio

Constellation Brands has bought Schrader Cellars' well-regarded wines. The Schrader Cabernet Sauvignon portfolio. The agreement includes vineyard sourcing, current inventories, and eight Schrader Cabernet Sauvignons including some from Beckstoffer To Kalon Vineyard in Oakville, but Constellation owns the former Mondavi part of the To Kalon Vineyard so it sounds like they can save a few bucks on future grapes.

The wines join Constellation's new TRU Estates and Vineyards organization servicing luxury wine consumers and customers.

Schrader wines sell for $200 and $450 but Schrader makes only a few thousand cases a year – at present. Constellation also owns half of Opus One.

Thomas Brown remains winemaker and Carol and Fred Schrader will stay involved in promotion.
